Books Every Bird-Lover Should Possess

HANDBOOK OF BIRDS OF THE WESTERN UNITED STATES

By FLORENCE MERRIAM BAILEY

Fourth edition. With important addenda bringing the book down to 1915.

"In making this book, Mrs. Bailey has performed a real public service. For all bird-lovers whose home is beyond the Mississippi, or who expect to travel thither, the book is indispensable."—Bradford Torrey, "The most complete textbook of regional ornithology which has ever been published."—Frank M. Chapman, in Bird-Lore, N. Y.

With 34 full-page illustrations and over 600 text illustrations, many of them by Louis Agassiz Fuertes. $3.50 net.

WHERE ROLLS THE OREGON

By DALLAS LORE SHARP

"A thrilling story of game and bird-protection. . . A real treat to the nature-lover, and will be instructive to all interested in the conservation of our native birds and wild animals, in addition to its distinctive charm as pure literature."—Newark News. Illustrated. $1.25 net.

FIELD DAYS IN CALIFORNIA

By BRADFORD TORREY

Adventures and experiences while bird-gazing in California. "Mr. Torrey loved birds, beasts, flowers, green fields, the sea, and the mountains, and there are charming references to them included in this book."—New York Times. Illustrated. $1.50 net.

METHODS OF ATTRACTING BIRDS

By GILBERT H. TRAFTON

"Those who want the pleasure of bird company and are unfamiliar with the best methods of attracting the wild birds will find this book invaluable."—Ohio Audubon Society.

"I have gone through Mr. Trafton's book on 'Methods of Attracting Birds,' and find that he throws abundant light on the problem. With the volume in hand one need not long hesitate how to proceed to draw the birds about his house and grounds."—John Burroughs. Illustrated with cuts and diagrams. $1.25 net.

WILD WINGS

By HERBERT K. JOB

"The book will appeal strongly to American sportsmen and to lovers of nature everywhere."—Philadelphia North American. Illustrated. $3 net.

THE BIRD OUR BROTHER

By OLIVE THORNE MILLER

"It brims with sympathetic narrative of bird-life and bird-lore, and will be given a warm welcome by all who love these small feathered friends."—Philadelphia Telegraph. $1.25 net.

A GUIDE TO THE BIRDS OF NEW ENGLAND AND EASTERN NEW YORK

By RALPH HOFFMANN

"For the use of a beginner we regard this volume as far and away the best book that the market now affords. It is intended principally as a help in identification, and for this purpose it has high merit. It tells clearly and with scientific accuracy the field marks by which each bird may be recognized."—Journal of Maine Ornithological Society.

With four full-page plates by Louis Agassiz Fuertes and nearly one hundred cuts in the text. $1.50 net. Also issued in a Field Edition, bound in full flexible leather, pocket size. $2 net.
