A PROSPECTIVE ENDOWMENT

A rare opportunity presents itself for members and friends of The Cooper Ornithological Club to assist materially in extending the influence of the society by enlarging and increasing its publications. The next $20,000 resulting from the sales of Dawson's "Birds of California", deducting only the expense of selling and transporting, is pledged as an endowment fund the income of which is to be used specifically for publishing. How soon this fund becomes available depends on the success of the sales program being worked out by the club's business management, and on the individual efforts of club members.

Dawson's "Birds of California" is fully entitled to the high merit accorded it by the ornithological world, the beautifully illustrated volumes constituting an indispensable work of reference. The text, complete in all editions, is done in a most readable and fluent style, and is valuable alike to savant and layman. The following editions are available for immediate delivery.
