Texas Bird Adventures

"Texas Bird Adventures" by Herbert Brandt has just been published by The Bird Research Foundation. The book contains 192 pages of alluring bird study with ten illustrations by George Miksch Sutton and photographs by the author. It will be welcomed by bird lovers everywhere because of its first-hand account of two new birds discovered by the author, together with intimate studies of familiar as well as less known southwestern species. The Couch Jay, Verdin, White-necked Raven, Mississippi Kite and many others are described, with Mr. Brandt's characteristic attention to detail.

Aside from the natural history of "Texas Bird Adventures," the scenery and magnificent local color of the Chisos region in Texas are meticulously pictured, including the stirring activities of a great prairie ranch at round-up time. If you enjoy travel and if you like to watch birds, you will value this book for its inspired delineations. As Dr. Harry C. Oberholser comments, "Texas Bird Adventures' is more than an adventure—it is an accomplishment. The reader will find in its pages, not only intriguing word-pictures, but real contributions to the knowledge of birds."
