

GLENHAVEN FOUR CELL

One of the best traps available. Automatic in action, simple and durable in construction. Each bird is caught in a cell to himself, insuring his safety from larger birds or enemies. Many species are caught with this trap that will not enter other types, there being no tunnel or guard at the entrance; the bird simply steps inside and the door falls behind him. Birds of varying sizes are caught with equal efficiency. Birds very rarely injure themselves because the cells are too small for them to gain momentum. Made with or without bottom. Rats, mice, gophers, snakes, and other bait thieves are easily caught with this trap. $5.00 F. O. B. Clayton.

W.B.B.A. Two-Compartment Trap

This trap, measuring 7" x 8" x 10", is divided into two compartments each 5" wide, 8" high and 7" deep; it is made of vertical wires similar to most bird cages.

Each compartment is provided with a drop door and automatic treadle of the type used on Potter traps. The treadles are attached to the trap and counter-balanced so that the doors will not be tripped by the jar of a bird alighting on the trap, or by the falling of the other door.

Adjustable feet are attached so that the trap will rest firmly on any approximately plane surface.

The trap is very strong, being welded throughout, and is painted with a good green enamel.

In the United States, west of the Mississippi River . . . $1.50
 East of the river and in Canada . . . . . 1.75

With bottom added, making a combination trap and gathering cage, add 25 cents.

Postage paid in each case.
