

the review states that "neither of the 1944 birds were members of the 1938 pair since both members of the latter were banded and neither of the 1944 birds has bands." Here again the paper states that the 1938 young were banded, not the adults.

NOTICE

The cooperation of bird-banders has been solicited in supplying English Sparrows and Starlings for use in laboratory work.

Miss Elizabeth M. Boyd, Dept. of Entomology, Cornell University, Ithaca, New York, is making a study of ectoparasites and intestinal worms of English Sparrows and Starlings and is desirous of obtaining live specimens of these birds over a wide area of distribution. Shipment may be made in a corrugated box with a few perforations and containing grain and sectioned apples, and sent Express collect to Miss Boyd at the address given above. Miss Boyd will be glad to furnish containers upon request and to reimburse for any expense involved.

Mr. George A. Bartholomew, Jr., wishes to secure English Sparrows for experiments on the effects of light intensity on reproductive development. Banders living in the vicinity of Boston who catch any of these birds are requested to call Mr. Bartholomew at WATertown 6167 and he will gladly call for the birds; sparrows from more distant points may be sent to the Biological Laboratories, Harvard University, Divinity Avenue, Cambridge, Massachusetts, via Express collect.
