Inland Bird Banding Association

President's Message

We hope this issue will be the end of NABB being behind schedule. One half of issue 4 is already typeset. It should be published before the end of the year.

Both Inland and Western have to take a serious look at this joint publishing effort to determine if we can afford to continue. We could possibly save more money by having more volunteers help in some fashion.

A full discussion of the publishing problems and needs of each organization will be conducted at Inland's meeting in Oklahoma on October 26 and 27. There will be a panel discussion of the three editors and presidents to discuss the problem from their own perspective. Members of all the organizations are urged to attend to learn about the needs and wishes of each organization.

One of the important issues to be discussed will be the content of NABB and the difference of opinion about the very purpose of NABB as seen by the members of each association.

Full coverage of the results of this meeting will be featured in issue #4 of NABB as well as a chart of the future of the publication. To keep it on schedule takes the full and utmost cooperation of each editor and president to stay on schedule.

The goal of NABB's present editorial committee is to make it a high quality medium for the exchange of information of bird banders across the continent. Only through the input of you as an individual with your own needs, problems and solutions can the publication be successful. Let us know how you feel we can help.
