

The Osprey IS NOW A SUCCESS!

A THOROUGH MAGAZINE FOR THOROUGH ORNITHOLOGISTS.

DR. F. H. KNOWLTON, of United States Geological Survey—I have heard a great many kind things said about "The Osprey." Everyone with whom I have spoken seems pleased with it.

DR. R. W. SHUFELDT, of Smithsonian Institution, United States National Museum, Washington—I am very much pleased with the appearance of the journal, indeed, and its well selected name. Pray accept my congratulations, and best wishes for a long, useful as well as successful career.

A. W. ANTHONY, M. A. O. U., San Diego, California—I congratulate you upon its neat appearance and the quality of its contents. Keep it up to that standard and you need have no fear of the future. I shall be pleased to do what I can toward contributing when I can find a little time.

DR. MORRIS GIBBS, Kalamazoo, Mich.—The first issue is the most perfect, typographically, of any publication of the kind it has been my pleasure to peruse. You have a pains-taking proof-reader, as well as a capable editor in your "fish-hawk" sanctum; and your capable judges cannot fail to predict a bright future for your bright, fresh periodical. I know it will live, and will simply ask my fellow students to help "The Osprey" to thrive.

O. W. KNIGHT, Maine State University—I have looked it over very carefully and critically and have only praise to offer. Can find no fault with it and congratulate you on your success.

PROF. PEARSON, Guilford College, S. C.—"The Osprey" has taken a very high stand.

ARTHUR M. FARMER, Clinton, Mass.—I think it the best initial number of any scientific magazine I ever saw.

E. E. MASTELMAN, New London, O.—Cannot say too much for it.

W. J. B. WILLIAMS, Holland Patent, N. Y.—Easily takes the front rank among our ornithological papers.

R. W. WILLIAMS, JR., Valparaiso, Ind.—You certainly deserve credit for such a monthly. I know it will succeed.

W. E. LOUCKS, Peoria, Ill.—I have no doubt of its success.

C. O. TROWBRIDE, Farmingham, Mass.—It ranks with the best.

CLAUDE KING, editor of "Sports Afield"—Yours is a paper of very great merit and usefulness.

WALTON MITCHELL, St. Paul, Minn.—I consider it second only to the "Auk," and superior to anything else.
