

SOME LAKE ERIE SUMMER NOTES.

Studies of the feeding of nestlings in a dozen different nests of nine different species proved that all of the birds fed May-flies to their young in larger proportion than any other food. The May-flies were by far the most numerous insects in the vicinity of Lakeside, Ottawa county, where the studies were carried on.

In the woods north of the Marblehead lighthouse, a White-throated Sparrow was found breeding. One was found breeding at Cedar Point in 1911.

In the marshes in the vicinity of Sandusky, the Black Terns built their nests upon floating boards or other timber, almost without exception. This may have been due to the high water.
